Comment Of The Day

Murray Hotel

THE sale of the Murray Barracks site yesterday to an American hotel group bring widespread satisfaction to Hongkong. Government may be a little disappointed that the sale was consummated at 3141/4 million for the rate of $365 per square foot which the successful bidders are to pay, is almost a third lower than the price obtained for a city site half a mile away. Had there been greater interest in the Parade Ground site particularly from overseas interests, the price might have been higher.

But there can be no cause for dissatisfaction. Government in effect bought back from the Army, Murray Barracks, the Parade Ground and the Detentiion Barracks as well as part of the Shamshuipo camp for $17.2 million. And it has recovered more than threequarters of this amount on part of one of these properties already.

apart from the revenue it brings, however, there has been much said in recent weeks about the shortage of first-class hotel accommodation. It is gratifying that a widely experienced hotel - chain bought the owner has and is conversant company with American tastes. We are going all out to woo! American tourists and it is right that there should be more than the two or three hotels which existing measure up to their high standards.

There have also been disturbing reports recently about shortage of top-class accommodation in the Colony's hotels. Not all of them are true, but Hongkong must keep up with the increasing number of tourists who are making their way to the Far East.

Local investors, with one or two exceptions, seem reluctant to commit themselves to big expenditure. We have said before that this reluctance is understandable, but it obviously points to the need for financial assistance from an outside source, from an overseas firm or from organisation Colonial Development Corporation, or even from Government itself which could well follow the lead given by Trinidad.

T is pleasing to know that ment Corporation is interested in a local hotel project and it is to be hoped that the Hongkong company which was promised "considerable funds" from them will search for another site. The CDC grant would be more than a good local: investment, it would be a gesture of confidence in Hongkong,

Finally the Murray Parade Ground sale brings nearer the work that must be done on the multi-storey car park behind the hotel and on the busy traffic intersection of Garden Road-Queen's Road. The sooner this is started the better. This was perhaps the main reason for Government's anxiety to acquire this part of the military lands and while both sides of Garden Road are affected by this work, the motoring public would appreciate an early plans.

London, May 30. The body of a British climber found on the upper slopes of Mount Everest is posing one of the biggest mysteries in the annals of climbing.

It could be one of three men: Mallory or Irvine, the British climbers who disappeared in a final attempt on the summit of Mount Everest in 1924, or a religious fanatic named Maurice Wilson who tried to climb the mountain alone in 1934.

Sir John Hunt, who led the successful Everest expedition in 1953, said he thought the body found by the Chinese Everest expedition was most likely that of Wilson, a former British Army Captain.

His aim in climbing the mountain alone was to draw mankind's attention to the doctrines. He perished at about the height at which the Chinese climbers found his body.

Body found

However, his body was found by a British reconnaissance party in July, 1936. His diary. was removed, and

Sir John said a possible explanation was that the body had been uncovered by mountain winds. Sir John thought it impossible that the body was that of either the British climbers Mallory or

They perished in a different area covered by the Chinese climbers, and even if they had plunged thousands of feet down the mountain, their bodies could

"It is a distinct possibility that the Chinese have finally given us a partial answer to what happened,"

Mr Kirwan said final identification could only be made if there was an opportunity to examine the clothing and teeth of the corpse. Since the Chinese reported their climbers buried the body on the spot, that is unlikely to happen. "But so far as one can judge from the available facts, they certainly seem to have helped clear up the mystery," said the 53-year-old director. Mr Kirwan ruled out any possbility that the body was that of Maurice Wilson.

car production

Detroit, May 30. PTIME U.S. motor industry, with one day's production to go in a month in which it already has built 586,817 passenger cars, is scheduling a June output of more than 600,000 units.

Such a June output would bring production for the first half of the year to approsimately 3,800,000 units. This, said Ward's automotive over the weekend, would form a solid base for an estimated 1960 production of 61/2 million passenger cars.

The industry hasn't topped 61/2 million cars since 1955, when it built 7,920,000. Reports estimated last week's production at 143,427 passenger cars, 37,490 of them compacts. The provious week's assemblies week's a year ago 117,539. Only the Rambler of American motors and the Lark of Studebaker-Packard were in the compact field a year ago.

It is also estimated that 1960 production up to May 28 totalled compared with from inventors through the same period in 1959. In trucks, the U.S. industry's production for this year totals 3,777,269 units, against 3,264,901 for 1959. Chevrolet continued its run eway over Ford last week, but Ford's Falcon again was far in front of Chevrolet's Corvair Chrysler's Valiant.

Falcon's 11,290 units brought t to 216,874 for the year. Corvair produced 4,100 last week to bring its year's total to 131,609. Valiant figures were 7,500 and 122,135, respectively.

the year, with 223,914, out last week. Studebaker-Packard, closed practically the entire week, was credited with only 40 units.
